Evaporative Air Conditioning System

Product Description

Efficient Evaporative Cooling is determined not only by the cooler itself, but by correct design and installation of duct work and componentry which is generally located in the roof space. Polyaire's innovative Superflow Insert, with its patented design can improve your system's performance by up to 20%. So if you want optimum performance from your selected cooler, insist on the Polyaire Superflow Insert, installed with the complete range of Polyaire componentry.
